SPECIAL BULLETIN

SUPPLEMENT BULLETIN

On 16 June 1996, the Bulls became heroes of Chicago by clinching the 1996 NBA Championship - Unsung but no less heroic were all of you who worked long hours to keep the Citizens of Chicago safe during the post game celebration. In fact, not once, not twice, but three times you were called upon to guarantee the safety of the streets. Each time, Wednesday evening, Friday evening and then finally on Sunday evening, you answered that call with professional precision and alacrity.

You deserve to be proud of your performance. Many of you worked your regular day off; many of you donned helmets and marched into harm's way. Many of you worked long hours on adjusted schedules. You let none of these conditions negatively affect your demeanor or interaction with the public.

We thank each and everyone of you for the contribution you made. Because of you, violence and destruction were kept to a minimum during this year's post championship game activities. Your efforts, routine as well as extraordinary, have been noted and are most appreciated. You are indeed Chicago's finest.

THANK YOU
